

Fall 2021: Photojournalism Students' Photos

Here is a showcase of the fantastic work that photojournalism students in Comm 333 have composed this fall semester. Professor Kevin Pina assigns the class weekly photo assignments for students to photograph stories around the Bay Area and throughout California.

Strike at Kaiser, San Leandro, Calif.

By Francisco Villanueva

"On Oct. 7, several people were outside of Kaiser on strike for hours, holding up signs explaining their reasons for striking. The strike was seen a couple of days before this day, it is unclear how long the strike will last."

Masking Up Indoors

By Kieara Simmons

"Though there is a little light at the end of the tunnel returning to indoor dining and even taking instructed painting classes (at a Sip and Paint) after being restricted to being at home for over a year due to COVID-19. We still should keep in mind that currently, the CDC estimated in September that Delta (a deadlier strand of COVID-19) accounted for more than 85 cases in the United States. So the message here is that masking indoors in public places, regardless of vaccination status, to stop transmission and stop the pandemic should still be everybody's priority."

Celebrating All Commuters

By Kieara Simmons

"The Associated Students Inc. (ASI) organized a free break-fast table and raffle to celebrate commuter students on October 18, 2021. Being a commuter student myself, I noticed the small gestures like this that show how California State University, East Bay's students appreciate all students who make an effort to come to campus after a long shutdown due to COVID-19."

San Francisco Bay Area Ferry Recovering from the COVID-19 Shutdown

By Rafeeq Muhammad

"Ridership is gradually rebounding from the devastating effects of the COVID-19 shutdown. Bay Area economies are benefiting from the increased number of passengers and potential patrons who are again using the ferry services for commuting, shopping, and tourism."
